According to the article, what is one way students can help prevent bullying in school?

According to the article, there are several steps students can take to help prevent bullying in school. One example is in paragraph 3 where it states, “students can participate in a school wide effort committed to speaking out against bullying and its harmful consequences.” I agree with this statement because one time my school had an anti-bullying poster contest. The topic of the contest was “Stand up to Bullies” and there were over 50 entries! All of the posters were hung up around our school, so we could vote and read their anti-bullying messages. Involving students in a school wide contest seemed to make everyone really think about how hurtful bullying can be.

Lions live together in social groups called prides. Most of the lions in a pride are females and their cubs. The lionesses share the work of hunting and raising cubs. By hunting in a pack, lions can take down animals far larger than themselves. Much of the food killed by a pride is taken by the males. In return, they provide protection from other lions. A pride has a well-defined territory, which is marked by the males. When lions in a pride meet, they greet one another by head rubbing, licking, and grooming. It's endearing to watch them.

According to the article, is it important for lions to live as a pride?

For example, the article states that “the lionesses share the work of hunting and raising cubs” and male lions “provide protection from other lions.” They also work together when they hunt larger prey. By sharing responsibilities as a pride, they will be able to survive a long time.

YOUR TURN!

The Three Branches of Government

Susan LaBella

The United States Constitution was written over two hundred years ago. It explains how the United States government should work. The people who wrote the Constitution did not want one person or group to have too much power. That was why they divided the government into three parts, known as branches.

The branches are the legislative, the executive, and the judicial. Each branch has its own responsibilities. The branches work together, but they also check each other to make sure no branch has too much power.

The legislative branch includes the United States Congress. Congress is made up of the House of Representatives and the Senate. Voters in each state elect their representation in the House and their senators. Those men and women go to Washington, D.C., to make laws.

The executive branch has the power to carry out the laws. It includes the president, the vice president, and their group of advisers called the Cabinet. Every four years, Americans vote to elect a president and a vice president.

The judicial branch decides on the meanings of the laws and whether laws break the rules of the Constitution. This branch includes the United States Supreme Court. Nine justices serve on the Supreme Court. The president appoints the justices, and the Senate approves them. The justices' job is to decide if the country's laws go against the Constitution.
